Church and University in the Scottish Enlightenment: The Moderate Literati of Edinburgh. Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1985. Pp. xix + 390. $47.50. This is an excellent "collective biography" of five Edinburgh clergymen and men of letters: Hugh Blair, Alexander Carlyle, Adam Ferguson, John Home, and William Robertson. Sher treats in rich detail the machinations behind the Moderates' hegemony; but we hear less about the contents of their literary works, and even less criticism of them. The reason is Sher's methodology--the social history of ideas--which is more concerned to explain how works now seldom read were so popular two centuries ago than to analyze and assess individual contributions.
